Counselling and the challenge of social transformations:
promoting human dignity across the lifespan

22–26 July 2009 / Warwick University, England

www.bacp.co.uk / www.iac.coe.uga.edu

On behalf of the Executive Council I would like to invite you to attend the 2009 IAC Conference at Warwick University, England from 22nd to 26th July. This conference will take place in a world marked by significant social and cultural transformations. These transformations are significantly impacting the quality of life for scores of people worldwide as they struggle to meet their basic needs on a daily basis. We will gather in Warwick to address ourselves to ways in which counselling, as both a profession and a process, can assist people in dealing with social, cultural, economic, and natural challenges that impinge on human dignity. The focus of this conference will be on how counselling can add value to peoples' lives as they confront major global challenges to health and well-being. This important conference is being supported by the British Association for Counselling and Psychotherapy and will provide all delegates with the opportunity to reflect on the nature of counselling in an increasingly complex world. Please join us for this important opportunity to connect with international colleagues and to explore ways to promote counselling as a global force for fostering human development and human dignity. Sincerely, Courtland C. Lee, Ph.D.

President
IAC

Conference Location

The University of Warwick lies on the outskirts of Coventry, at the very heart of England and is easily accessible by road, rail and air. The region is home to cathedrals, castles, stately homes and gardens, museums and galleries.

The conference facilities are set within a unique and welcoming village environment and located in rural Warwickshire within 700 acres of parkland where it is surrounded by lakes, woodland and relaxing outdoor spaces. Choose from a wide range of restaurants, cafés and bars in which to relax and unwind. All the conference facilities are situated on Conference Park. Accommodation is available in single en-suite rooms on Conference park or alternatively Radcliffe offers 4* hotel style accommodation whilst still remaining on University campus, a short walk from the meeting rooms.
